

NEWSBRIEFS

TAKORADI, GHANA: Pastor Alex Eshun, a member of our international prayer fellowship, the Circle of Power, and leader of Christian Youth Bible Studies, writes, "Thank you for the Faith Cassettes. We have been using them in our ministry to benefit those who do not already believe. Through the cassettes we have won them for Christ, and many have received their healing and been delivered from the work of evil." Praise God.

YANKOMAM VIA ENCHI,

GHANA: Gabriel Biechman Aidoo tells of the need for, as he writes, "One of your nice symbols of the ministry to be placed at the entrance of church, so that everybody will know and understand what we are doing over here."

HAITI: Rev. Bernadel Dalton tells of the two Christmas dinners he is planning for 380 orphans, and his hope of getting toys for the kids. Any contributions will be welcome, and should be sent to him at P.O. Box 11208, Carrefour, Haiti, W.I. Regular American checks are cashable in Haiti.

Dear Raphael,

Thanks for your workshop and for the help and understanding you gave me, which helped me deal with some difficult feelings about an old issue, which I had found threatening. After the workshop I was able to complete the healing.....After being set free from this bondage I have become much closer to my husband. We have been working on our own issues more, and received prayers and healing in these areas. As a result, our marriage has become much more satisfying, as I had always wanted it to be. My husband, Jim, feels the same way.

NEWSBRIEFS

We would like to take this opportunity to wish all of our readers a very blessed and happy 1987.

LOCAL

Coconut (Rev. Maria Perchuk) and Garfield visit this little boy at Sunrise. The youngster wonders about Garfield and Garfield isn't sure the kid has any pasta! Coconut made a special visit Thanksgiving Day.

CLOWN MINISTRY: As we go to press our clown troupe, ably led by Rev. Grace Michaels, is extraordinarily busy with Christmas parties for the kids in institutions all over the city. Some parties are already history, others are yet to come, and include Desert Developmental Center (DDC) - three parties there for different groups - Child Haven, University Medical Center (UMC), Temporary Assistance for Domestic Crisis (TADC), Nevada Association for the Handicapped (NAH) and Nevada Treatment Center (NTC).

Our very special thanks to the many organizations and individuals, who have generously given toys and gifts for all these events, among them, the U.S. Marine Corps 'Toys for Tots' program, 'Giftchecks' local outlet for lots of coupon books, Crabtree and Evelyn, Nieman-Marcus, Mervyn's Department Store, and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Huffman in Henderson, who run a toy store and family entertainment center out of their home. God bless you all.

Our special thanks also to some wonderful volunteers, who have ably assisted our regular troupe. "Grandma" (Liz Bradley), a retired schoolteacher, went with "Lilac" (Rev. Grace Michaels) to UMC. One young lady with her leg in traction from a serious injury giggled at the silly clown songs, and played happily with Grandma's marionettes. Her mother said, "That's the first time she's smiled since she came in here."

Constructo (Brother Peter Williams) and his puppet, Drillpress, gets an appreciative audience at DDC.

John Monserrat, a professional magician, has visited DDC with us, and Carl Crosby, who has been a professional rodeo clown, has been on several visits with us, including a special benefit fair for New Vista Ranch, a proposed group residence for handicapped adults. Carl went as "Flash" the clown and helped Lilac paint faces on the attendees, while Grandma entertained with her marionettes.

"Chief" (Isidro Gonzales) has continued to be a much-loved volunteer at DDC and Child Haven, and new volunteer, Jean Klein, gave a lot of affection to the young girls of the Toyabe Cottage at Child Haven during the Christmas party we held for them, and looked terrific in her clown gear. We had brought homemade cookies and other refreshments, games with prizes, including pin-the-star-on-the-Christmas tree, Christmas music, and a nice big stuffed animal or doll for each child.

This newborn and his mother get a visit from Lilac and Cookie at UMC. Guess he's hoping everybody won't look like this when he grows up!

The children at Child Haven and TADC always hug the clowns at the end of our visit, and we get asked things like, "Would you be our foster parents?" from some of the Child Haven girls. The retarded youngsters also appreciate the contact, and are glad not only of a hug, but also the special understanding between them and the clowns, who are able to show them that they and their moods are understood even if the youngsters are unable to speak.

This young lady helps Lilac play guitar at a party at NAH.

PET THERAPY: When Rev. Abigail Johns visited Beverly Manor recently with canine assistants, Teddy and Pippin, she found old friend Joseph asleep in his wheelchair. Later, after her rounds, she stopped back in Joseph's room - he was now awake - and Pippin insisted on getting up onto his bed to greet him. Joseph petted him and went blissfully back to sleep, and Joseph's roommate thoroughly enjoyed every moment.

This lady at Henderson Convalescent with her arm around little Yang says it all. Rev. Matthew Gartenlaub (left) visits regularly.

At Henderson Convalescent Hospital, Rev. Matthew Gartenlaub, who has been taking little Yang, the pekingese, along with him, has started introducing Fritz the Cat to the residents. Fritz has been learning to relate to a lead and harness and other non-feline trappings, much to the amusement of the residents and Matthew, and has done extremely well.

NATIONAL & INTERNATIONAL

ATLANTA: Bob and Margery Kellar have been active with Animal Action. Margery, who is Atlanta Coordinator for Georgia Earth Alliance, organized a demonstration outside prestigious Lenox Square shopping center with tables of literature, placards, traps and other mementoes to man's cruelty to animals. The action, which ran 11 a.m. - 3 p.m., drew some good responses in its intended objective of demonstrating man's exploitation of animals. The following weekend she organized a very fine vegetarian buffet dinner.

CHICAGO: Rev. Raphael de Peyer's annual fall visit to Chicago was a great success, and included a prayer meeting, the workshop, "The Gift of Communication," and much individual counseling. Our special thanks to Margaret Ovitsky, Christian and Hans Mendenhall, and to Catherine Mendenhall and Pauline Schuler, who organized refreshments for the all-day workshop, and to all of you for making the whole endeavor so memorable. God bless you.
